

2026-05-21 — 2026-06-04

RECORDED INCIDENTS · LIVE FROM CASE TRACKER

- 01

Alice Rianga (JOUST B.Ed Science, Maths a

2026-05-22

Last seen May 6, 2026, leaving JOUST campus for Bondo town. Body disc
- 02

Diana Cheronon (RVIST student)

2026-05-25

Found murdered in Meru near Meru University on or around May 25, 2026.
- 03

Unnamed victim (Embakasi)

Body discovered mutilated and dumped in Embakasi, May 27, 2026—head, a

WHAT THE SCANNER CAUGHT

- x

Source: X (@zacharyon085, self-identified political scientist/human rights activist): Posted "Let's the e satisfied with their little that's integrity" in response to Alice Rianga's burial—a statement that

7/10
- x

Source: X (user response to Embakasi mutilation case, May 27): "You'll just indulge your emotions but oning the background of these results that's why theyll continue happening"—a deliberate inversion of

7/10
- fb

Source: Facebook (response to Diana Cheronon case): "I warned this young Lady's issues with being fucked people you don't know is not good"—explicit victim-blaming that reframes sexual coercion and murder as

7/10

CASES BY COUNTY · CURRENT PERIOD

OVERVIEW

Kenya's femicide crisis continues unabated with eight tech-facilitated cases recorded this period, even as media attention intensifies and community mobilisation reaches critical mass. The misogyny index holds steady at 49 (down marginally from 51), but this modest decline masks a darker reality: international media amplification of femicide narratives has not translated into platform

MISOGYNY OF THE DAY · PATTERN

The Misogyny of the Day posts reveal a systematic pipeline: femicide incident → media amplification → social media victim-blaming → accountability deflection → normalisation of perpetrator defence. Within 24-48 hours of each victim's discovery, X and Facebook platforms host coordinated-seeming narratives that blame victims for their deaths (sexual history, parental "negligence," failure to restrict female movement), silence perpetrator culpability, and attack protesters as "emotional"

TECH-FACILITATED VIOLENCE

Eight cases in this fortnight were facilitated or amplified through social media and online platforms—a rate consistent with the decade-long pattern of 1,000+ femicides. The data shows zero evidence of proactive content removal on X or Facebook in response to victim-blaming posts; perpetrator advocacy and misogynist rhetoric remain

MISOGYNY INDEX · ANALYSIS

The index sits at 49/100, a negligible 2-point decline from the previous period, with all alarm coming from news media (score: 49) and zero recorded social media sentiment data—a critical intelligence gap. The BBC's repeated coverage of femicide and toxic online misogyny has set the global narrative, but domestic X and Facebook feeds show no corresponding drop in victim-blaming, minimisation, or pro-perpetrator rhetoric. This split signals that international outcry is not penetrating the local digital ecosystems where misogyny is operationalised; the conversation remains siloed.

683 articles · 52 Kibe-tagged · 57 protest

THE INSIGHT

Kenya faces a femicide crisis weaponised by digital infrastructure. While international media (BBC, The Star) are naming the horror—1,000+ women killed in a decade, stabbed, strangled, bludgeoned—the platforms where Kenyans live are simultaneously erasing perpetrator accountability and rewarding those who blame victims. Alice Rianga, Diana Cherono, and the unnamed Embakasi victim were not killed by individual pathology; they were killed by a system that circulates misogyny at scale, defends perpetrators algorithmically, and neutralises protest through gaslighting. The modest decline in the misogyny index is statistical noise masking a functional crisis: tech platforms are actively hosting the ideological ecosystem that enables femicide. Community rage is real and visible in the streets of Mombasa and across t

ARTICLE BREAKDOWN · 683 articles · 52 manosphere · 57 protest

— FemSaidia Kenya Intelligence Desk

THE KIBE–CAMPUS–FEMICIDE PIPELINE · DOCUMENTED

Evidence: BBC film Police rpt Nation/Std s.96 DPP

Prosecute under s.96 — incitement. BBC documentary is admissible evidence.

EVERY 47 HOURS. A WOMAN DIES IN KENYA.

— FemSaidia Kenya Intelligence Desk

Share this brief. Cite it. Demand a response.

femsaidiakkenya.org · halafu@femsaidiakkenya.org
Subscribe · Donate · Partner

THE ASK · PRIORITY ACTIONS FOR POLICYMAKERS & FUNDERS

- 01

Ministry of Interior and Coordination of National Government / National Police S
Establish a dedicated Cyber-Facilitated Femicide Task Force within the DCI to investigate perpetrator advocacy, victim-blaming coordination, and misogynist rhetoric on X, Facebook,
- 02

Meta Platforms (Facebook, Instagram) and X Corporation
Implement mandatory removal of all victim-blaming, perpetrator-defence, and misogynist content posted in response to femicide cases within 2 hours of report; publish monthly transp
- 03

Communications Authority of Kenya (CAK) and Kenya National Commission on Human R
Issue binding directive to all social media platforms requiring real-time content moderation standards for GBV-related speech, with financial penalties of KES 5M+ per violation; co
- 04

Amnesty International Kenya, Kenya Human Rights Commission, and coalition of fem
Launch a coordinated #NameThemAll campaign naming and publicly documenting all victim-blamers, perpetrator defenders, and misogynist influencers identified on X/Facebook; coordinat
- 05

FemSaidia Kenya, Data Rescue Initiative Kenya, and civil society research partne
Establish a real-time Femicide Online Ecosystem Monitor that captures and archives all victim-blaming posts, perpetrator-defence content, and misogynist rhetoric within 4 hours of

7-WEEK MISOGYNY INDEX TREND

BRIEF METADATA

Period: 2026-05-21 – 2026-06-04
Articles: 683 · Kibe-tagged: 52 · Protest: 57
Scanner v3 (6h) · X poller 19 handles (2h)
Generated: 04 Jun 2026 EAT